Reading Passage

STAMP COLLECTING

If you are just starting to collect stamps, here is some advice.

At the beginning, collect as many stamps as you can. The ones which you decide not to keep can be traded with other people. Never throw stamps away. Don't keep the envelope, unless it is unusual. However, do keep the envelope if it is the first date when that particular stamp is used. Some people are very interested in these "first day covers".

Sooner or later you will decide that you want to collect a certain kind of stamps. It may be stamps from a particular country, or stamps of a particular kind, like stamps with a bird design on them, for example. This will make your collecting much more interesting. You can then look for new ones to add to your collection.

Do join a group. There is a lot to learn about stamps and others can help you. Also it is great fun. You will soon learn which stamps other people are collecting and they will start to trade stamps with you too. Go to stamps sales and buy whatever you can afford. You can often pick up packs of used stamps very cheaply. Old stamps that have not been used are usually more expensive than used stamps. Perhaps at the beginning you may only afford used stamps.

Later on, you will find something unusual. It may even be valuable. Finally, remember that stamp collecting is fun. It can be exciting to get stamps which you do not have yet. Also many stamps have unusual and beautiful designs, so enjoy them.
